Our Spirit of Loyalty at Regina

We learned Loyalty as Freshmen

Vaction was over! It was September 3, and the call of school was sounding everywhere. We Seniors were hearing that call which meant going back to Regina and being Seniors.

Above: What fun it was to meet the faculty and many old friends whom we had not seen since June. Seeing the underclassmen, we recalled our early years. Peggy Peter thought of her registration when she and her mother decided on her course of studies with the help and approval of Sister Wilhelmino.

Below: Electing class officers was an inconceivable thrill. Patti Durrant become vice-president; Thale, president; Katherine, treasurer; and Joyce, secretary.

Above: Then came memories of the day when our Big Sisters entertained for us. Jeonne Harper had been so happy to meet her Big Sister, Sharon Colahan. Seniors gave such a protective feeling. How grown-up we thought we were as we sipped cokes and crunched potato chips with our Big Sisters.

We studied Loyalty as Sophomores

Below: In December, we conducted the annual canned goods drive for the Little Sisters of the poor. We did not know there were so many cans of food in existence as we dragged them from "Ethiopia" to the south door for the pick-up truck.

Right: But the real climax of the year was reached when for the second time we won in the Mission Queen contest. After Joanie Heenan had won in our Freshman year, we put our popular Pat Porter up as the sophomore candidate. AND PAT WON!

Like all thrills, that Freshman year became history too quickly, and suddenly we found ourselves Sophomores. There were so many more things to do this year.

Above: Religion classes were tops with Father Chris who had the answers for all our questions.

We practiced Loyalty as Juniors

School had hardly begun again in September until we were having measurements for our class rings and making plans for that great event of our Junior year—the Ring Ceremony on December 7 (Below). Really, ours are the most beautiful rings any Reginian ever wore.

Left: Since we could not have a gay Christmas party before vacation, the Juniors were privileged to close the holiday season on the Twelfth Day of Christmas with an Epiphany program for the whole school. Nancy and Mary Lou seemed remarkable as the Holy Family. Then came the retreat conducted by Father Lawless. How many conversions did our Guardian Angels chalk up during those days?

Circle: Our candidate was Arlene MacKenna and for the third successive year our class won the honor.

Below: And the Prom! Will we ever forget the Prom! Pat Porter, our class president, presented Miss Conway with a gorgeous bouquet of roses.

We lived Loyalty as Seniors

We had had so much fun and excitement as Juniors that we wondered how the senior year could possibly be better. Class spirit was our driving power and we had it.

Right: Immediately after school opened we were planning the Big-Little Sister party and WE were the Big Sisters. We tried to make the Freshmen feel that Regina was their school too, as we entertained them on September 6. Below: Very soon came the class elections and after a hard contest Barb Schuster became our class president. There was something to do all the time.

We had the yearbook drive for ads and patrons.

Right: We had to make plans to decorate for the school dances. Below: Then came Advent and our class had the ceremony of lighting the candle which would burn before our Blessed Mother in the main entrance for our intentions all this year; we put up the Crib and the Christmas tree in the main entrance. After Christmas came mid-year exams and the closed retreat at Friarhurst and—well, the rest of our story you will find in this, our own 1958 Yearbook.

Pat,
A real doll with
a darling personality.
Remember all the fun we've had this year and of all the fun will have next year.

Pat
to a real swell
dude who always listens to my big problems (Bov)
Always remember the fun
we had dancing & hope we can again some day.
Maybe St. Mate's dance started the old flame burning again at least I think so. Always remember the fun on Kealey nights & remember how we used to mess them out when they didn't come.
I still think you
& I shouldn't take that from a freshman (Bertch
I mean).

Keep that darling personality & you will last & really know how to love.

Our Flag

the Symbol of our Loyalty to our Country and don't know how I put up with you (but it's fun trying) Love

Dedication

One hundred years ago on February 11, a beautiful Lady from Heaven appeared to the humble French maiden, Bernadette Soubirous, near a grotto in the rock of Massabielle in southern France. Although sixteen more apparitions occurred during the next six weeks, it was not until March 25, that the beautiful Lady revealed her identity with the words "I am the Immaculate Conception."

In commemoration of these apparitions, the Senior Class of 1958 dedicates this thirtieth volume of the Regina ANCILE to our Blessed Lady of Lourdes, the spotless Queen of Heaven.

Loyalty to Our King

Through the inspiration of prudent administrators the Reginian learns the significance of loyalty. In their leadership is found the guiding light leading to its fuller realization and appreciation in the four realms of student life. They have molded for us a spiritual, intellectual, social, and physical pattern to pursue toward our eternal goal.

Administration

Sister Mary Clement, Vice-principal; Sister Mary Cleomato, Treasurer; Miss Jeanne Conway, and Father Timon, Spiritual Director, confer with Sister Mary Edwardine, Principal, on school matters and problems.

The Reginian is Loyal to Mary, Regina's Queen.

Looking toward graduation is a pleasant anticipation for seniors, but what lies beyond arouses serious thought. Caps and gowns, honors, diplomas, gifts, plans for careers—all live in the future for which sincere preparation has been made.

As the true Reginian leaves her Alma Mater, she takes with her a gift fostered and nurtured by devotion to Regina's Queen—the treasured gift of loyalty to school, to country, and to God.

Seniors

Mary Ann, Carol, Sylvia, Louise and Jaan are the first to examine their caps and gowns.

Our Alma Mater

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, all move onward year by year—each with definite goals and aims to be accomplished.

Getting acquainted in a new school with new teachers, and new friends is a year-long task for freshmen. Sophomores find studies more interesting as they anticipate a career. For the juniors the year is replete with intricate study problems, receiving class rings, attending the Prom, and, at the end, becoming seniors.

There is no lack of opportunities for studying loyalty in all the various phases of class life.

Above: Not even the photographer succeeds in distracting Sister Cleomata as she pursues her duties figuring fees and tuition.

Below: Linda checks absentees, demerits, and various information on the temporary office records. Her usual smile is much broader than this "on the job" expression.

Right: Marydeon is saying a long "Ah—!" for Mrs. Walter, the school nurse.

The Reginia is Loyal
in her Studies.

High School forms the stepping stone to a life's career. As the student advances from freshman to senior, she prepares for the vocation and the avocation of her choice. Entering Regina means the beginning of that preparation toward which the student, directed by her parents and the school administrators, works for the next four years.

The various courses are planned to impart knowledge for advanced study in college or for a career in business.

Studies

Studious seniors apply themselves to serious study of their "pet" subjects.

Religion

In the Religion courses the Reginian prepares for life as a loyal Catholic woman in her home, in her parish, and toward her country.

The study of Religion is the most important study and is pursued throughout the four high school years.

Right: The photographer caught Father Timon dictating a test in Religion III. His class of juniors enjoyed the interruption.

Below: Father Randolph puts across a serious lesson to the seniors in his usual clever manner.

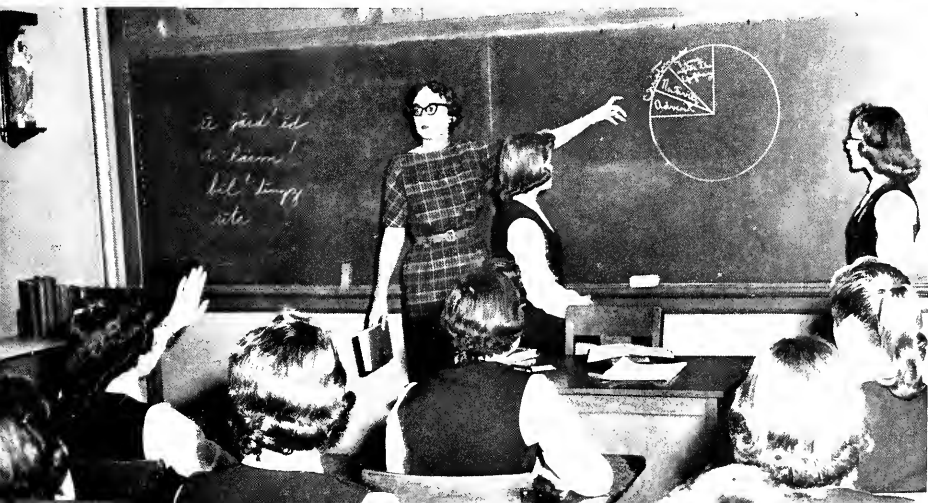

Above: In Religion II class, Marilyn Beverage was doing a good job of explaining the four Marks of the Church under Sister Carlina's direction; but Barbara Smith stole a quick glance of the camera.

Right: Attractive posters helped to clarify the meaning of parts of the Mass for Sister Giovanni in her Religion II classes. Peggy Pope and Marlene Budai are down to earth, but Elaine McConn smiles heavenward.

Below: The Liturgical Year was the topic for discussion in Miss Dorn's first year Religion classes on the day that year-book pictures were taken. Both Father Timon and Father Randolph teach a freshman Religion class also.

English

In the English Department the study of literature, grammar and speech, are especially emphasized for the college preparatory and the business students. This course of study includes book reports, essays, and term papers.

Interested junior students are given an opportunity for the study of journalism as preparation for work on the BEACON Staff. Remedial English classes concentrate on grammar and reading.

Right: Without looking for the teacher, every student would recognize this as Sister Mary Edward's English IV class. Dee gives correct directions but no one really knows how long those books will balance on senior heads. Rito's principal problem is the lower left arm.

Below: Donna Caposela's description of Julius Caesar's plight brings a question from the floor. Perhaps Mrs. Lammert will solve the dilemma for Mary Mehmert.

Right: Notice the happy faces on the freshmen in English 1A. Miss Joering must have the ability to make grammar study interesting.

Left: Sister Mary Carlina is searching for the culprit, but none of these English IB students wish to acknowledge the mistake. Perhaps Ann McGraw knows.

The loyalty of the Regina student to her country is enhanced by the study of foreign languages. Through Latin she discovers the beginnings of democracy in the early Roman Republic; and by studying the Romance languages of French and Spanish, she develops a fuller appreciation of the beauty and culture of those countries.

Above: "Professor" Punghorst, as Cicero, defends "Archias" Imwalle against the accusations of "Gratius" Wahle in Latin IV, as the rest of the senators, including Sister Mary Edward, sit in judgment.

Right: Cicero may puzzle Jeanne Harper, but Sister Benedicta's questions apparently do not stump the entire class.

Latin II, I

Below: Declining and conjugating occupy much of the time in Latin I. The "Spirit of learning" really shines in these Freshman faces.

Spanish III

Above: Visions of sunny Spain (Compliments of Janet Barchelt!) chase the glooms of a rainy day in Sister Benedicta's Spanish III and IV class.

Below: Betty Schmidt and Marilyn Stegemoller are permitted a glimpse into a favorite book with Regina's Spanish "profs." Sister Benedicta's and Sister Martha's mischievous expressions indicate that something is in the offering.

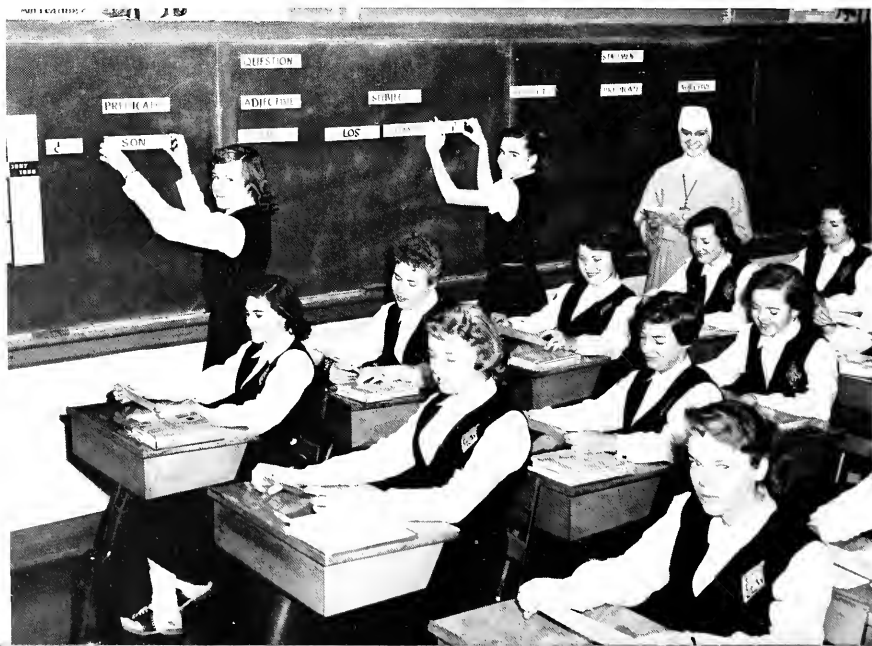

A black and white photograph of a classroom scene. A male teacher stands at the front near a chalkboard filled with handwritten notes. Several female students are seated at desks, some looking towards the teacher. One student stands at the front holding a book. The chalkboard contains the following text:

tinder - lampy - twynpale
contests - wavy - twine
cont- mally - meagay - tang - thist
contests - wavy - twine
no contests - thendroning to - many - hilling
contests - wavy - twine

Right: Sister Benedicto is determined to make genuine Spaniards of this group of "hombres."

Below: Two promising Spanish I students, Judith Tuite and Suzanne Eddingfield, hope to obtain the honor roll. Sister Martha's smile furnishes some assurance.

French II, I

Above: It's all French to me! Maureen Hactor, Janet Moore, Ann Wagner, (seated), Mary Ann Marshall, Carol Brinker, and Miss Jaering listen to a story told by Mademoiselle Barb Fedeler in Second Year French.

Right: Carol Leftwich takes over in French I as Miss Jaering retires to a neutral corner.

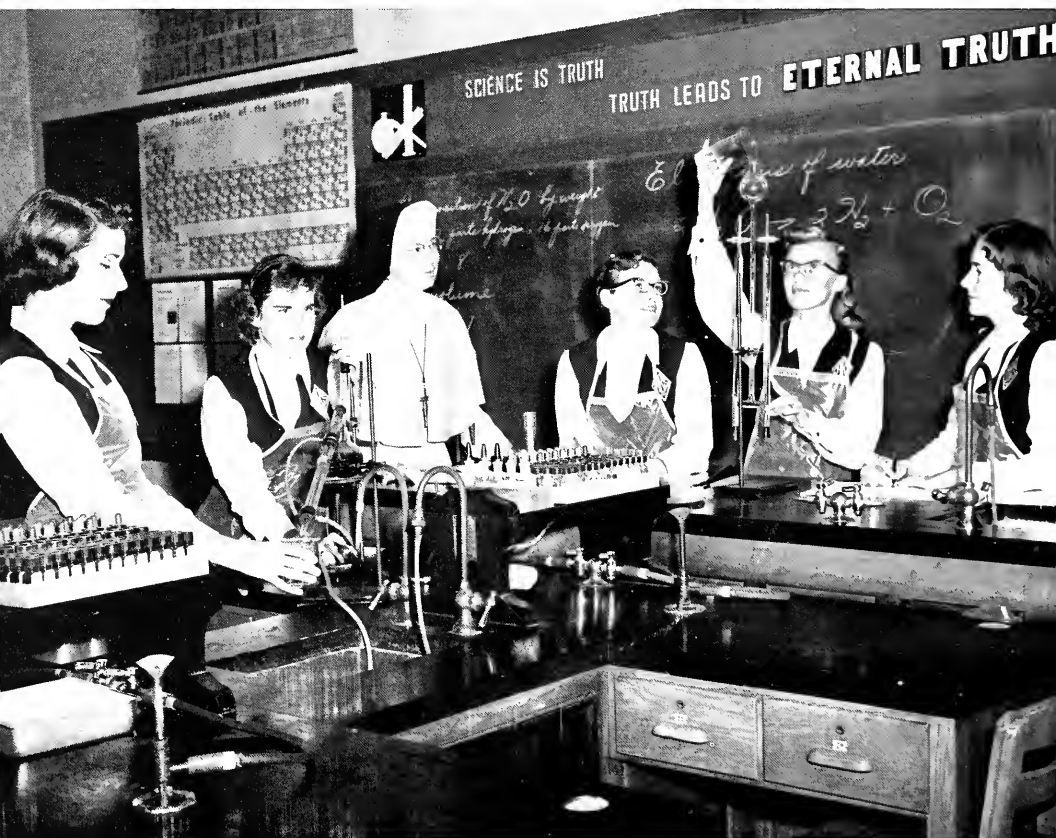

Science

By instructing the future scientists of America, the faculty of Regina's science department are contributing their share to the progress of our country.

The newest addition to the science department, a course in physiology and anatomy, offers students an interesting study of the human body, while biology and chemistry continue to attract a large number of those students preparing for college.

Below: After experiments in the electrolysis and distillation of H_2O , five chemistry students—Paula Steiner, Cheri Bischoff, Barbara Hansbauer, Bonnie Hall, and Mary Ann Bookmyer—can never be accused of "being unable to boil water." Sister Irenaea is on the alert for any possible catastrophe.

Sister Michel shows sea shells and butterflies to seniors Joan, Anne, and Ruth who, in turn, exhibit them to the class in Biology.

Below: Muscle and blood, and skin and bone—that's what people are made of. Janet Keller wants to see if that is true, much to the amusement of Sister Michel.

Mathematics

Regina's mathematics department prides itself in giving the students a guide to logical thinking. Not only does the study of mathematics round out the student's curriculum, but also teaches her to analyze a problem and pursue it logically to a correct solution.

Above: Higher math enthusiasts watch intently as Miss Metzner shows the use of a compass in working out graphs.

Right: Statement: Geometry is difficult. Reason: It requires the exercise of the thinking faculties . . . Miss Metzner encourages her students to study.

Social Studies

In the Social Studies classes, Reginions study the development of society throughout the ages from ancient to modern. They learn how modern problems result from the mistakes of the past, and, in class discussions, suggest possible solutions.

Left: Just where Sister Mary Clement's one hundred and fifty-three "National Problems" fit into the circle is evident; however, it really takes the whole "nation" to satisfy senior needs as represented by Nancy, Maureen, and Mary.

Below: The War of the League of Augsburg and its corresponding colonial war have the modern history class puzzled—almost. Sister Liliusa and Janet are waiting for a "Treaty of Peace."

Home Economics

The study of home economics prepares the student for her two-fold vocation as a saint and a mother. While displaying loyalty to the family, the basic unit of society, she will be fulfilling an even deeper devotion and faithfulness—that of loyalty to God.

The fundamentals of homemaking, home-nursing, baby-care, clothing, and foods, supply practical experience, as well as an appreciation of the home and family.

Left: Evelyn Woelfle is modeling her latest creation which had won much commendation from Shillita's Fashion Board. Gale and Diane have scrutinized each detail and approved. Sister Peregrine's Clothing II students are prepared to satisfy all clothing needs.

Right: Eileen Renner, Gale Daly, and Diane Roetting are studying picture arrangements. Their future homes will benefit from this practical study of home decorating.

Above: Carol Greiwe, Virginia and Pat Pfau enjoy sewing on the lovely "Singers." Seams and hems take no time to complete and a new garment is made for the vacation needs.

Below: Two Clothing I students, Mary Hilgefart and Kathy Moriarty, select the patterns that will be sure to satisfy needs in their spring wardrobe.

Above: With Sister Florentine's assistance four senior housekeepers learn the delicate art of scraping, washing, and drying dishes, and table-setting. Joyce likes rubber scrapers; Marlene knows her fingers will be softened again with sweet-smelling lotion; Agnes may smile because she is safe from harm. Mary clears the luncheon table in proper order.

Right: Sister Mary Electa directs Mary Lou Clarke and Charlotte Crosley in cake baking procedures. These results look very appetizing.

Left: "Future Homemakers of America" — Cynthia Whyte, Helene Ries, and Elizabeth Kempe — under the direction of Sister Florentine study different types of canned products.

Right: "Soft colors, bright colors—which will you choose when planning a home?" asks Sister Electo of Susan Brown, Judy Hanley, and Morilyn Levo.

Left: "The best way to a man's heart is through his stomach," and Mary Rothley, Lois Bicknell, and Judy Fermann are learning this all-important method.

Below: "Be careful, Joanne, you know how expensive material is these days," explains Janet. Cecilia admires Kathy's skirt while Lucille proceeds to cut out her own skirt.

Below: Miss Jane Sherman tells Louise Andrews, Rose Rolfes, and Morlene Gruber that flower arrangements can be easy.

Business Department

Regina's modern Business Department is an attraction to many girls attending this school. The education and training in this department prepare the girls to take responsible positions in the business world and thus do their share to keep America great and prosperous.

Left: Shorthand II presents no problem to left handers as Rita Fledderman and Judy Strorman prove. Sister Madeleine dictates and watches her "stop" clock to the hundredth of a second.

Above: What's this? Music while you work! No, Sister Marguerite and Barbara Nieparte know that the record Joyce Oaks is about to play is a shorthand dictation record.

Below: The senior bookkeepers indicate to Sister Cleomata that what is in the book is also in their heads.

Above: Marilyn Heuermann, Mary Lau Roush, and Carol Fette have faraway looks in their eyes as they put the finishing touches on "Lady Fall."

Art Department

Three years of art and a course in crafts are offered in the Art Department. Apart from satisfying the class requirements, the are students are constantly called upon to provide posters, bulletin board decorations, and to assist in numerous other projects. The work they produce gives evidence of the exact training given by the art teacher, Sister Mary Therese.

Below: Sister Mary Therese is very definite in directing the use of the silk screen for the Art book covers; however, all the turpentine did not arrive at its proper destination. Beverly was a bit shaky!

Above: Bright shiny earrings come from the nimble fingers of students in the crafts class. Other interests are put aside as Sister Therese explains techniques.

Below: Flowers in mid-winter! A group of industrious sophomores are busy adding the final touches to the decorations for the Regina Welfare "Mom and Pop" Hop.

Music Department

The aim of the Music Department is not only to teach students the fundamentals of instrumental music, but also to imbue them with an appreciation and an understanding of the fine art of music. The fulfillment of this aim helps to round-out the Reginian culturally, as well as to develop her musical talents.

Below: "One-two-three-four!" Sister De Sales directs Frieda Mader and Betty Punghorst as they rehearse their two-piano number.

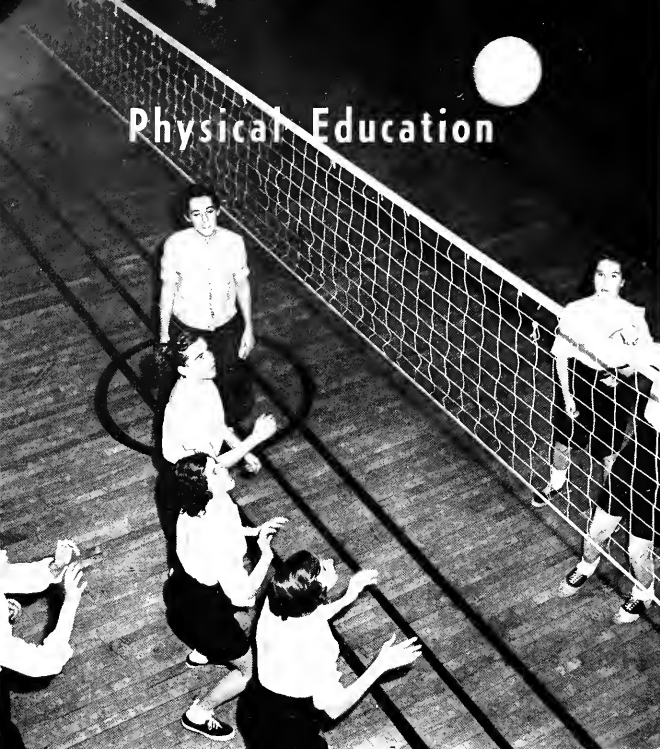

Above: Sister Denise makes a last minute adjustment on Janet Moore's French horn as seniors Rose Rolfes, Janet Brinkpeter, Judy Gerdes, Janice McCabe, and Rita Reichling wait their turn for inspection. There is a big orchestra rehearsal ahead.

Below: Mary Anne Imwalle, Jeanne Harper, Cecilia Taphorn, and Kathy Kromer practice their string quartet with Sister Miriam Therese as accompanist.

Physical Education

Every Reginian enjoys sports in physical education classes. Under the direction of Miss Jeanne Conway, the students learn the skills of basketball, volleyball, etc.; but, they also learn sportsmanship, which will be of great importance in their entire life.

Right: "Oh, how I wish I were taller," groans Lois Lutz, as she jumps for the ball against Rosie Pitocco.

Left: Jone, Rose, Lennie, Barb, Rosie Rolfes, Judy, Lois, and Mary Ellen feel the lure of the outside. Accordingly, they are eager to prepare themselves for their favorite spring sport.

Right: The gym rings with the strains of the "Virginio Reel" while the freshmen learn that square doncing is fun and good for their figures.

The Reginian is Loyal
in leadership.

Membership in organizations is especially helpful in developing loyalty. Whether the organization has a religious, cultural, physical, or social aim, the achievement and end are similar.

Every Reginian is encouraged to belong to, at least, one organization or club. She may select the one which is satisfying for her particular interest, or which helps to develop her personality.

Several organizations have specific requirements for membership; whereas, in others, membership is elective. Considered generally, there is an organization for every student need.

Organization

ANCILE Staff

The spirit of our theme tells the story of this thirtieth edition of the Regina ANCILE. True loyalty and earnest work to produce the best have been the constant interest and goal of this year's staff. Sister Mary Clement is the faculty advisor.

Publishing THE BEACON is a project of the Junior Journalism Class. Under the guidance of Sister Mary Martha, faculty advisor, the Staff distributes six editions annually.

What goes on behind the closed door of the Beacon Room on ground floor remains a mystery until the "zero" hour, when a P A announcement states: "home-room teachers will kindly detain the students for a few minutes at 2:15. The journalism students will be in homerooms with the latest copy of THE BEACON."

Press Reporters

"We read that in the Regina news in last night's paper," is frequently heard from the lips of students, parents, and friends. Not a thing escapes the vigilant eyes and ears of Regina's press reporters who will be on the spot for an interview or for "just a line" of information.

Loyal to her job, each reporter writes her scoops, types them, mails them, and then—well, the only thing left to do is to wait for the paper. Behind all this student activity is the energetic moderator, Sister Mary Madeleine.

Student Forum

The Student Forum is the connecting link between the faculty and the student body. Promoting good will, encouraging school spirit, and effecting cooperation among the students and the faculty are general projects for the group.

The officers of this organization are elected in late spring and serve throughout the ensuing school year. The presidents of the four classes, together with the officers, comprise the advisory board, which meets monthly and considers the projects to be promoted and presented to the homeroom representatives at the monthly meeting. Sister Mary Clement is the faculty moderator.

Above: Planning the agenda for a meeting are Rita Reichling, president; Wendy Winkler, secretary; Linda Westerkamp, vice-president.

Catholic Students Mission Crusade

Pledged to the three-fold duty of prayer, study, and sacrifice, Regina's Crusaders have completed a record-breaking year.

In the monthly homeroom meetings, the representatives, spurred on by enthusiastic officers and the faculty moderator, Sister Mary Martha, plan their program of spiritual and temporal sacrifices for their missionaries in foreign lands. Prayer and study of mission life are the major activities.

Senior representatives discuss prayer campaigns: Judy Strotman, Judy Schuckman, Janet Moore, Marilyn Heuerman, Ann Schlie, Lenora Lewis, and Cynthia Whyte.

"We Serve," the motto of the Junior Red Cross, is indicative of the work of the Regina Unit. Guided by Sister Mary Peregrine, the projects are planned and initiated by the officers, who, in turn, direct the various homeroom representatives.

Helping the poor, the aged, and the shut-ins furnish valuable social experiences for ambitious youth. Loyalty is surely a virtue of the Junior Red Cross.

National Honor Society

The Regina Coeli Chapter of the National Honor Society was established at Regina in October 1956, when the Constitution was approved and the Charter was received from the National Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Membership in the National Honor Society is based on scholarship, character, leadership, and service, the requirements being explicitly stated in the Constitution. Students satisfying these requirements are inducted into the Society at the end of the junior year.

Four meetings are held annually, but no particular activities are scheduled for the National Honor Society, since the members are obliged to participate actively in, at least, two established organizations.

Members of the Third Year Latin Class organized a Latin club under the title "Circulus Latinus Sancti Hieronymi" (The Latin Club of Saint Jerome).

Study of the magazine Auxilium Latinum, as well as other interesting Latin projects, have provided material for the club meetings which are held monthly during the class periods.

Right: Club members practicing Latin versions of Christmas carols: Maureen Banfield, Joyce Schneider, Mary Ellen Lampe, Roberta McDonough. Jeanne Harper is at the piano.

Spanish Club

Above: Las Posadas—The highlight of club activities was the re-enactment of the Posada at their December meeting. Posadas, the traditional Christmas parties of Mexico, symbolizes the nine days' journey of Mary and Joseph to Bethlehem, when they asked for shelter at a posada (inn) each night. By song, the students repeat Joseph's plea for shelter, until finally, one man, kinder than the rest, offers the Holy Pair a cave for shelter. And so, the music gives way to joy and happiness, when, at midnight the Christ Child is born. This picture represents part of the journey of Joseph and Mary.

Right: Close-up of Judith Griswold, Diane Coombs, Judith Young, and Margaret Stotler in typical South American costumes.

Right: The breaking of the pinata—To symbolize the joy of Mary and Joseph at having found shelter, a gaily decorated earthen vessel filled with candy and gifts for the children is suspended from the ceiling: One by one, a blind-folded child is given a turn at trying to break the vessel, or pinata. Here Mary Ellen Mack seems to be having success. Then each child scrambles for a gift which has fallen from the pinata.

Science Club

Science, an important key word of the future, has a strong background in Reginian life. With St. Albert the Great as their patron, the members of the Albertus Magnus Science Club direct extra-curricular science activities in the school and show the growing interest of tomorrow's citizens in the scientific world.

Officers of the Albertus Magnus Science Club:

The Orchestra

The forty-four members of our ever-progressing orchestra are under the constant and watchful eyes of their director, Mr. Cletus Mecklenborg.

Through the untiring efforts put forth by the teachers in the Music Department, and the director, the orchestra succeeds in creating enjoyment among all the students with the annual spring concert, the class play, community sings, and at graduation.

Below: Janet Kampsen, president of the G.A.A., proudly places the Purcell trophy permanently in our case after Reginians defeated St. Mary's 14-3. Mary Kroimer and Joyce Hugenberg were the "stars" of the game.

One cannot be a good sportsman without good physical health and a sense of loyalty and fair play. Through interscholastic and intramural games, the Girls' Athletic Association strives toward the development of these qualities in its members. With its enthusiastic director, Miss Jeonne Conway, the G.A.A. trends to unite the students in genuine school spirit.

Young Christian Students

The Young Christian Students, or YCS as it is commonly known, is an international organization devoted to the development and training of high school students as Catholic lay leaders.

The method of preparation is that of the observe, judge, and act techniques, so that as Lay Apostles the students see what is needed, consider how it may be accomplished, and then, after application of the matter, they proceed to try to influence those whom they contact.

Meetings are held weekly for one hour during which time is given to Gospel and Liturgy discussion and to a Social Inquiry. Each student has her own book containing an outline for the meeting. She is expected to spend some time in studying and preparing to participate in the discussion.

At last summer's annual meeting in Lisle, Illinois, Regina joined the Covington, Kentucky, Federation and thus became a member of the Southern Division with Headquarters at Memphis, Tennessee. National Headquarters are in Chicago, Illinois.

Service Club

Here, there, and everywhere, members of the Service Club may be found probing corners, cleaning classrooms, and generally putting things in order. Not a speck of dust escapes them and their willingness to serve makes it a pleasure to ask favors of them. Remuneration for this service helps these girls to pay for their tuition.

The faculty moderator is Sister Mary Conrada.

Left: Courtesy and friendly service characterize the girls in the bookstore. Directed by Sister Mary Cleomata, Helen Yearout, Ann Martinson, and Martha Larmann, members of the service club, help the students and keep the shelves and the supplies in order. Mrs. Geis assists with the book-keeping and the accounting.

Right: The world is at your fingertips in the library. Mrs. Dawdy can be your guide for a trip to faraway places through the wonderful world of books.

Above: Judith Kreidler, a senior who plans to attend college after graduation, is consulting Sister Mary Clement, the guidance director, about her credits, college entrance requirements, and courses of studies.

Guidance

Regina's guidance program is geared to the four phases of student life—the moral, the religious, the educational, and the social. The Franciscan Fathers who teach Religion III and IV are always available for moral and religious guidance. Members of the faculty may be consulted in any area in which the student may desire assistance; but the educational guidance is particularly under the direction of the Principal and the vice-principal who is the guidance director.

An extensive program of testing is administered each year so that individual educational needs may be satisfied and adjusted. Each day during the activity period, students may ask for an appointment with a counselor scheduled for that particular day.

Regina High School Welfare Association

To provide many opportunities for promoting the best relations between the faculty and the parents is the aim of the Regina Welfare Association.

Now, in the fifth year of its existence, the association has progressed consistently in social and financial assistance toward Regina High School. This year has been one replete with activities—entertainment for students, parents, and their friends. Monthly dances for Catholic youth, regular monthly meetings and entertainment, the Christmas party, the two annual card parties, and the Mom and Pop Hop. To evaluate the work of the association for Regina would be next to impossible.

Left: Other officers of the Regina Welfare Association: Mrs. John Faswinkle, Board member; Mrs. Robert McLaughlin, Recording secretary; Mrs. Sam Pizzo, Corresponding secretary; Mr. Raymond Berke-meyer, Board member; Mr. Charles Rieger, Auditor; Mr. Richard Reichling, treasurer; Mr. Joseph Shea, Jr., Board member.

Regina Alumnae Association

Three interesting meetings and an afternoon children's party are the year's agenda for the Alumnae Association.

Coming back to their Alma Mater, recalling incidents of school days, chatting with former teachers, and, of course, meeting classmates and friends whom they have not seen "in just ages and ages" are what the members appreciate most of all.

Proceeds from the annual card party are applied to scholarships principally for daughters of alumnae members or for students who need financial aid.

Above: Regina was hostess to the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae on January 16. Miss Sally Sue Thompson gave an interesting book review.

Below: The highlight of the year was the children's Hallowe'en Party on October 27.

The Reginia is Loyal
in activities and social life

A Reginian's school life is rounded out in a variety of activities designed especially to put into practice the many lessons which she has learned from day to day in the classroom.

The student, furthermore, has many opportunities to show her loyalty to Regina by participating both in school and in city-wide events. These activities not only test her loyalty, but also call into practice all the accumulated knowledge that she has at her disposal.

Regina's motto, "A Child of Mary shall not perish," recalls that the Reginian is trained in her high school years to meet in a Mary-like fashion all situations that she may encounter throughout her life.

Activities

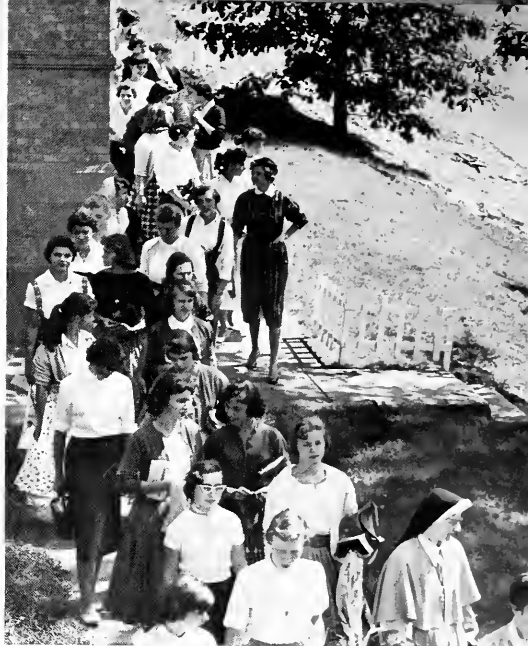

Right: Representing some of Regina's activities: Gail Foswinkle, Joan Witte, Judith Gerdes, June Luessing, Patricia Fohl.

September

Above: At the opening assembly Rita Reichling, the Student Forum president gave the welcome address. Then Lindo Westerkomp, the vice-president, and Wendy Winkler, the secretary, showed graphically the ways in which Regina prepares the "Queen's Teens" for the future.

Above: And now we are seniors! On September 6 we attended the opening Moss in Honor of the Holy Spirit at Sts. Peter and Paul Church.

Right: The first big event of the year for us seniors was the Big-Little Sister Party. On that occasion we adopted the freshmen as our Little Sisters. The copping ceremony was conducted in the courtyard around the grotto following a brief program in the auditorium. Our last year's officers: Cecilio Taphorn, Julie Wagner, Mary Rothley, and Patricia Porter were in charge of the affair.

Above: It looks as if the "Stars" have the election sewed up, but the final tabulations showed that the seniors voted a split ticket.

Top: Some of the seniors are casting their votes in this their last class election at Regina.

October

Right: We wasted no time in getting our activities underway. The freshmen were formally initiated into the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade early in October during the annual ceremony.

Above: Beacon and Ancile Staff members bid goodbye to some of their fellow-classmates just before they leave for the Ohio Scholastic Press Convention in Columbus. Faculty moderators, Sister Martha and Sister Mary Clement, were chaperones.

Above: The YCS Variety Show was a new event which everyone enjoyed. One of the most popular acts was the comedy featuring Rosemary Engler and Judy Dame-wood.

Left: Regina made the headlines! Here's the proof that we are "in the news." Beacon members prepare to sell the "Regina POST."

Above: "Now just a minute," says Kathy Gunn, when a rival tries to bribe her to vote "sombbrero."

Above: Late in October, Regina was hostess for E B I day. Eight representatives from business and industry spent several hours visiting classes and discussing related problems.

Right: The whole student body celebrated the Feast of Christ the King with the annual assembly. Seniors formed the living rosary and led the devotions.

Left: Seniors of the foods classes prepared and served dinner to Father Randolph and Father Timan on the Feast of St. Francis, October 4. The food seems more attractive than the gifts!

Below: Regina and Villa Madorina Academy YCSers met in the Regina auditorium to exchange ideas on YCS work. The sunlight seemed to leave "footprints on the sands of time."

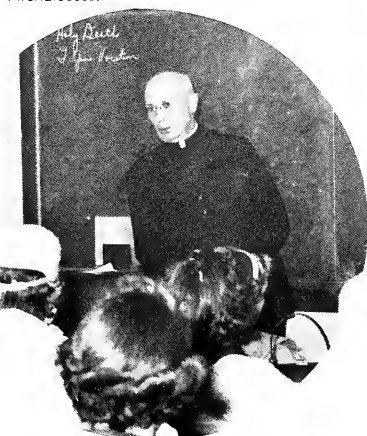

Above: Enthusiasts of the "Operation Christ" movement pause during their November dance to recite the rosary.

Below: Mary Lou Roush, Mary Alice Finke, and Thale Schumacher study photography and art layouts in yearbooks at the Diem and Wing Paper Company yearbook display. Sister Mary Clement is making good use of the opportunity also.

Below: Career Night offers an occasion for Reginians to receive first-hand information on careers. Parents and students listen attentively to Monsignor Ryan as he gives facts on the teaching problem in the Archdiocese.

Above: Rita Reichling and Linda Westerkamp receive able assistance in completing decorations for the "Operation Christ" dance. Dee Shea catches up on the news.

Below: Miss Rosella Ammann of Mount St. Joseph College advises students and their parents on the advantages of a career in physical education.

December

Above: Introducing the Junior Class Ring Ceremony on December 6 provided a lasting memory for Patricia Hansberry, the Junior Class president.

Above: After receiving their class rings, Peggy and Jeanne realize that they have passed another milestone on the road toward graduation.

Below: Our Blessed Mother smiles graciously on the juniors after they have recited their prayer of dedication to her.

Above: Judy Kohle, Sandra Saile, Rosemary Wehrmon, and Barbara Kock carry out some of the canned goods which the sophomore class had collected in their successful drive for the Little Sisters of the Poor.

Right: BKR gives a rousing cheer for the "down-stairs" during the final game between the seniors and the juniors in the volleyball tournament. Who won? Why, the SENIORS, of course.

Below: Continuing the Morion Year tradition, the senior class lights the new candle before our Blessed Mother's statue on December 6.

Above: "O, come let us adore Him!" The spiritual aspect of Christmas dominated Regina's halls as was evidenced by the Crib in the main hall.

Left: Sister Edwardine exclaims, "What could it be?" as the Student Forum officers—Rita, Wendy, and Linda—present Sister with a Christmas gift from the student body.

Left: "It is in giving that you receive," was the attitude of all the homerooms as they made many a family's Christmas complete. Homeroom BKR displays some of the gifts which they prepared for a needy family.

January

Above: Father Nevin Hayes, O. Carm., a missionary to Lima, Peru, was the retreat master for the underclasses.

Above and right: The retreat days began with Mass and Holy Communion at Regina. The auditorium was converted into a Chapel for that week. Four daily conferences, public and private devotions, and writing notes which the retreatants recalled from the inspiring conferences kept everyone busy and recollected.

Above: Father Ammian, our retreat master, is caught in the act of imparting some of his words of wisdom to his eager audience.

Friarhurst

Left: Believe it or not! Making a retreat also makes you very hungry. These devout, re-collected, little maids can even enjoy soup during days of silence.

Left: Sister Florentine is enjoying the Community letter from her homeroom "darlings" upon their return from retreat. Was it a compilation of their retreat resolutions or ———?

February

Right: Barb's tears having dried after Miss Mary Louise Hickey's reading of Our Town, she expressed appreciation in behalf of the students.

Science Projects

Right: Betty Pungharst even supplied samples of sewage wastes with her science project for which she received Superior and Excellent ratings in the chemistry division at the Regina and the Triple A C Science Fairs.

Left: With Mary Mehmert's extensive knowledge of her project, she may be teaching Sister Irenaea how to manufacture paper. Her scientific ambition and her talent won for Mary a Superior rating at Regina and a trophy in the general science division at the Triple A C Science Fair.

History Projects

Right: The annual History Projects Contest grand prize winners were two energetic sophomores—Rosemary Wehrman and Martha Lang—who traced the history of land transportation from the crude sledge to our present swift-moving vehicles.

Right: Illustrating the "Preamble of the Constitution" won first prize in the American history section for Mary Ann Wehrman and Sue Buck.

Below: Carolyn Reisert, Jay Kuebler, Dorothy Schoemer, and Janet Kuhr display their first prize ribbons in the world history section. Their ingenious project on the "Destruction of Pompeii" attracted much attention.

Below, right: Rose Pitocco, a senior in modern history, won an honorable mention ribbon for her project on the "Signing of the Magna Carta," which she entered among the world history projects.

Romeo and Juliet

February 14, 15, 16, 1958

Right: Barbaro Schuster and Denny Sweeney portrayed the title roles in Romeo and Juliet, Shakespeare's drama of the star-crossed lovers of Verona. The senior class gave three memorable performances of this tragedy.

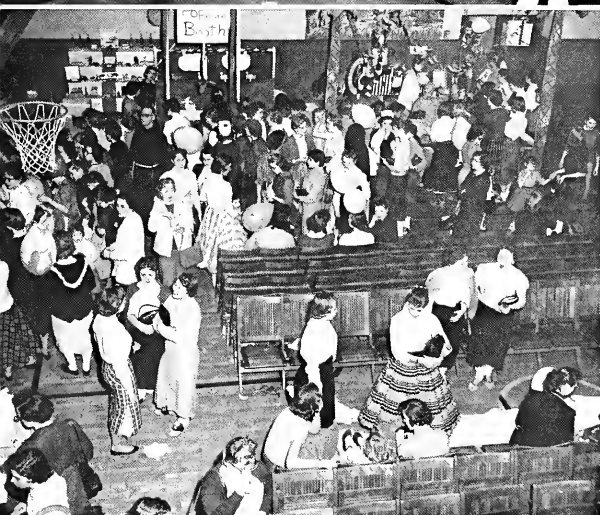

Below: "Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou Romeo?" muses Juliet in the famous balcony scene.

Above: Peter (Dee Shea), a servant of the Capulets, the enemies of the Montagues, accidentally shows Romeo a list of the guests invited to the ball given by the Capulets, while his friend, Benvolio (Wendy Winkler) is an interested onlooker.

Below: The Prince of Verona (Mario Carovillano) points out to the stricken Montagues and the Capulets the tragic result of their senseless feud—the lifeless bodies of Romeo and Juliet, who have taken poison in preference to being separated.

Top: "Clowning around" was Rosie Engler's method of advertising the movies sponsored by Hamerom 306.

Bottom: It was difficult to distinguish the older from the younger "Kids" at the 1958 Mission Bazaar.

St. Joseph

When the "Ads and Patrons" Drive opened, many seniors entered the race for the coveted title "1958 ANCILE QUEEN." But, as in all contests, the number of contestants narrowed down to four with Ann Wagner keeping in the lead to the very end.

It is because of the work and loyalty of these girls—Ann Wagner, Ruth Rolfes, Pat Moellers, and Rosemary Ebken—and their many friends among our advertisers and patrons that this yearbook is a financial success.

Thank you, Advertisers and Patrons, who have made our yearbook possible!

Train for a Career
at Mercy
School

Mercy School of Nursing in Hamilton, Ohio, is one of the finest training schools for nurses in this section of the country. Its million dollar home, Gonzaga Memorial Hall, where all students live, is considered so beautiful that it has been featured in national publications. The School is connected with Mercy Hospital which is a general hospital of 315 beds and 45 bassinets, well equipped to care for patients in its medical, surgical, obstetric and children's departments.

The School of Nursing was opened in 1906 and is approved by the Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration of Ohio and the National Nursing Accrediting Service. It is a member of the Conference of Catholic Schools of Nursing and its graduates are always proud of this fine school which has a high position in its field.

Students are admitted in September of each year. Applications may be requested and are accepted throughout the year. Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 35. They must be graduates of an accredited high school. Selections are made on the basis of the applicant's scholastic record, good health and aptitude for nursing. There are several scholarships available for applicants unable to meet all or part of the financial requirements.

ACT OF CONSECRATION

O Mary! In nineteen hundred and fifty-four, we entered Regina High School as freshmen. Since this was Marian Year we dedicated our class to you. That was two and one-half years ago. Today, December seventh, nineteen hundred fifty-six, before our mothers, our faculty, and our fellow students, we wish to renew this dedication. We consecrate to you, O Mary, our whole selves, our work in school, our extracurricular activities, and our prayers. In return we beg you to bless us and guide us through our remaining school years.

To prove our sincerity we promise to wear the class ring which each of us is receiving today as a token of our dedication. It will ever be a symbol of the powerful link between you, dearest Mother, and us, the class of '58. Amen.

Going to College?

Now is the time for the Class of '58 to begin thinking about the choice of a college.

The College of Mount St. Joseph on the Ohio

may be just what you've always dreamed about.

It offers majors and minors in all the fields important to women. Besides giving its students the broad cultural background of a liberal education, it prepares them for careers in

Left: Among the unforgettable persons we have met, Mrs. Winifred Feely will surely rank very highly. The story of her miraculous cure by our Lady at Lourdes will ever be remembered. We seniors can also think of the wheel chair labeled as our class gift to the sick at Lourdes.

Below: Reginions featured again in our Vocation Assembly on March 25. Father Paul Scales, O.F.M., was chairman of the discussion. The story of each "romance with Christ" furnished interesting information for present Reginions. They are Sister Timothea, R.S.M., '48, Sister Esther Marie, S.C., '56, Sister Herman Joseph, C.P.P.S., '50, Sister Loretta Rose, C.P.P.S., '55, Sister Mary Patricia, Glenmary, '55, Sister Ann Bernadine, C.P.P.S., '55, and Sister Mary Jude, S.C.S.C., '53.

Laetare Interlude

Left: March 14 and 16 were the dates for the annual LAETARE INTERLUDE—the combined Glee Club and Orchestra Concert. "The Seven Last Words of Christ," sung by the Glee Club, were depicted in tableaux beautifully portrayed by senior class members.

Below: Barbara Stogge, together with a group of "Scottish" maids, gave a delightful number in lighter style.

Above: Accompanied by the orchestra of which she has been a member for four years, Betty Ann Punghorst played a piano solo selected from a modern composer.

Below: In the final Chorus of Part I, Diane Roetting was featured as our Blessed Mother on Resurrection morning.

April

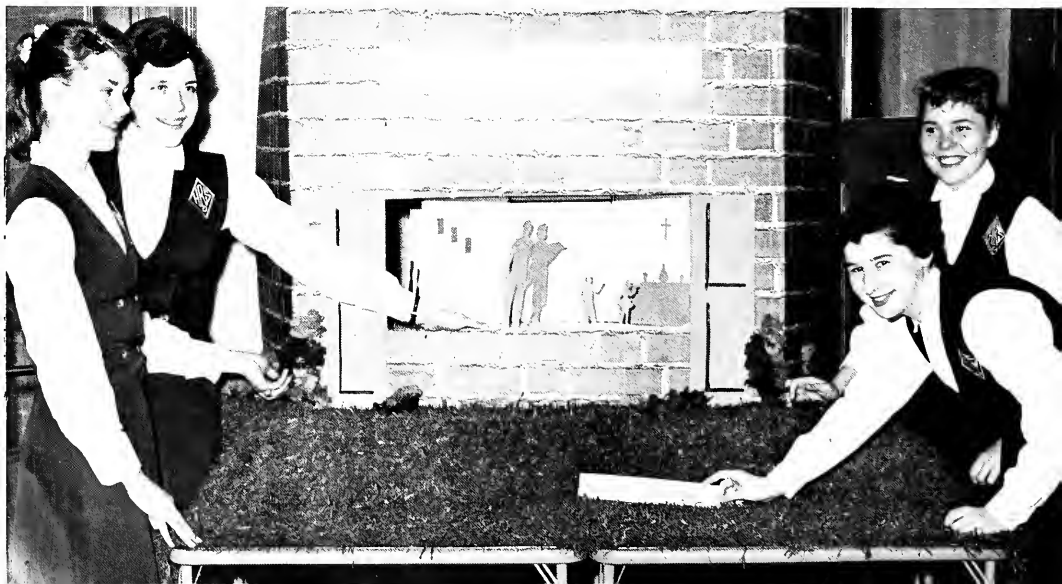

Above: Father Franer, Chaplain of the Newman Club of the University of Cincinnati and Assistant Superintendent of Schools, gave an interesting talk to the seniors and the juniors on the advantages of a Catholic college education and the dangers one encounters in a secular institution.

Left: On April 29, the student body was entertained by Mr. Tuczynski, a concert pianist, who played a repertoire of classical and semi-classical compositions.

Below: Kathy Kramer, Mary Kraimer, Janet Moore, and Barbara Fedeler, senior homemaking students, put the finishing touches on Regina's project displayed at Xavier University for the Family Life Conference on April 19 and 20.

Above: Miss Carolyn Gratton and Miss Sally Tiers from Gabriel House display a poster of their social action with children hoping to induce some Regina girls to lend a helping hand during the summer "day camps."

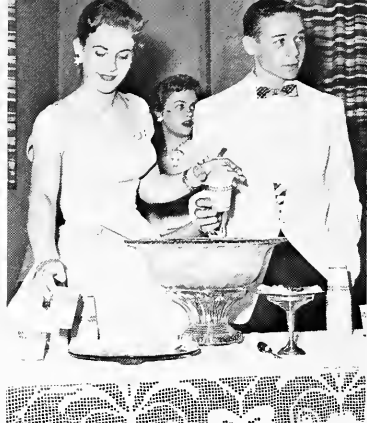

Right: "What college should I attend?" That was Wendy Winkler's great problem. Since Marquette University in Milwaukee offered the best solution for a journalism major, Wendy and her mother conferred with Sister Mary Clement, guidance director and senior class moderator, concerning the advantages for study at Marquette.

Left: Reginians took to the air waves over WCET on April 16 when they explained to future high school students what qualities were necessary for success in various careers. In this first of three scenes, Sister Mary Martha and Marcia Woeste discussed the requirements and subsequent satisfactions of a "career woman for Christ."

Left: Barbara Schuster, a senior, and Patricia Hansberry, a junior, explain the plans for Regina's annual career night with Elaine McCann, a junior.

Left: Mary Griffin presents a lovely bouquet of roses to Miss Jeanne Conway for her invaluable aid in making the prom a wonderful success.

May Crowning

O Mary, we crown thee with roses
today,
Queen of the Angels, Queen of the
May!

ing of Our Lady, the offering of red roses, the senior act of Consecration—all are precious memories of our lost
May Day at Regina.

the underclasses and the Student Forum president, attired in academic robes, form on honor guard for Regina's Queen.

Below: The senior officers approach one by one,
followed by the entire class, to place a red rose, indicative of love and devotion, at the feet of our Blessed Lady.

May

Above: Anticipating the great Liturgical Week celebration in August, Monsignor Sherry, rector of St. Gregory Seminary, addressed the student body on May 7. Regina's liturgical banner, which will hang in Music Hall during that week, was displayed for the first time.

Above: These students of homeroom 205 were most faithful in reciting their daily rosary during the month of May.

Left: "Rock around the May Pole" was the theme of the last school dance of the year. Reginians were glad to unpack their spring dresses after the long winter. This Joe Mueller "record hap" drew a record-breaking attendance.

Right: A two-year scholarship to Regina! Scholarship winner Cheryl Zimmer and Mrs. Zimmer, assisted by Sister M. Edwardine, decide on Cheryl's course for the next four years.

Below: At the final Alumnae Association meeting for the year, the vice-president, Mrs. John Cronin, presented to Sister M. Edwardine a generous check to be added to the Alumnae scholarship fund at Regino.

Right: Looking over her entrance examination, which gave her a one-year scholarship, is Judith Uhl. Sister Mary Clement is explaining the results to Judith and her parents.

Below: The 1958 graduates were the honored guests at the May meeting and social hour in the cafeteria.

Below: Carol is "all ears" as Rita tells her what happens to girls who do not attend Alumnae meetings. Obviously, the other seniors do not believe a word of it.

Above: You might think that the Regina Welfare Association is "going to the dogs," but actually "King" was just leading Mrs. Pizzo of the Blue Ticket to victory in the May elections.

Awards Assembly

Right: Mary Ann Imwalle, president of the National Honor Society, opened the Awards Assembly with an explanation of the purpose of the Society and the requirements for membership.

Below: Highlighting the Awards Assembly was the induction of new members into the National Honor Society. Sister Mary Clement welcomes the juniors who have achieved this honor—Julith Rinschler, Sue Schaefer, Geraldine Foy, Mary Claire Brinker, Patricia Hansberry, Joanne Whalen, and Myrl Degaro.

Barbara Schuster, president of the class of '58, compliments Mary Griffin, newly elected president of the class of '59.

Receiving the "Editor's" award from Sister M. Edwardine climaxes a year of outstanding work for Ruth Gallagher, editor of "The Beacon."

Joyce Schoenberger managed to capture several awards in the sophomore division. Here Sister M. Edwardine smiles her approval on Joyce's efforts.

Senior Farewell

Right: Anne, Jane, Bobbie, and Alice begin our Senior Farewell program with a poem recolling our freshman year.

Below: Freshman days remind us of general science class. Joon Koehne as Miss Stogge tries to ourose interest in science and Kleenex.

Above: Recollections of world history class in our saphomore year bring Miss Tuttle and her big surprise to us. Janet Borchelt tells us the story of a "ring."

Below: Marlene, Mary, Helen, and Dione sing of Pot, queen of the Mission Bazaor. For the second year in succession we won the queenship and thus began a tradition which the class of '58 challenges any closs to match.

Below: Peggy Peter, Pat Porter, and Friedo portray the big event of our receiving our glass rings. Apologies to Fother Timan and Sister Edwardine. Pot was the class president in the junior year.

Above: "My baby is growing up!" Proud mamas congratulate their daughters on the occasion of receiving their class rings. These class rings were somewhat large.

Above: Our class was a "sporty" one. In fact, we needed a shopping bag in which to carry our trophies to the farewell assembly.

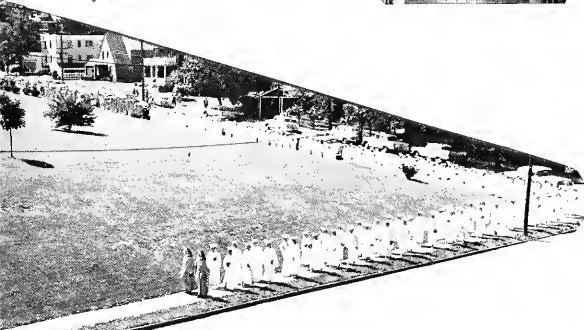

Above: "Oh, no, we did not miss breakfast again." This news upsets Judy Stratman and Joann Mitchell, Judy's bunkmate, during the retreat at Friarhurst.

Below: This was "Farewell."

Graduation Morning

Above: Our big day began in Sts. Peter and Paul Church with Mass said by our senior Religion teacher Father Randolph Thompson, O.F.M.

Graduation!

Left and above: Following the theme of Our Lady of Lourdes, Barbara Schuster had delivered her Salutatory—her welcome to our audience on this glorious night. Then Betty Ann Punghorst gave her Valedictory elaborating on the line "Our hearts are on fire," selected from the hymn "Immaculate Mary." Betty voiced the sentiments of each of us as we now were departing from our Queen's school.

Above: The person whose presence we really appreciated was Father Chris. He reminded us of some of the storms we, as sophomores, had weathered together, reviewing the points he had emphasized to keep us close to our Blessed Mother.

Right: Another Graduation Day privilege was the presence of Monsignor Earl Whalen, Archdiocesan Director of Youth Activities.

Below: Assisted by Father Timon and Father Randolph, Monsignor Whalen distributed the awards and diplomas.
